The Art of Pain-Free Productivity

The myth of productivity professes "getting things done" is the most important focus for your time and energy. EXCEPT: Getting it done is literally doing you in! This leads to overwhelmed, burned out business owners who feel like they spend their days running on a hamster wheel trying to outrun an impending avalanche. You need to get things done – of course! But there is a better way to be more effective and productive without all the stress and exhaustion. With her signature blend of humor and practical advice, Paula G will show you how to say goodbye to overwhelm and be more effective than you've ever been before.
